

FINAL MIDWEEK LENTEN SERVICE

Rev. T. E. Calvert Preaches at Christ Church Upon the Human and the Divine in Christ—Congregation of Good Proportions in Attendance.

Rev. Thomas E. Calvert, acting rector of Christ Episcopal church, was the preacher Wednesday evening there at the final one in the series of the united services for the Episcopal churches held in the middle of the week during Lent. His thoughtful sermon upon "The Human and the Divine in Christ" was listened to with deep appreciation by the good sized congregation present. Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown of Trinity church conducted the service of evening prayer.

For his text Rev. Mr. Calvert took two verses: "Me ye have not always" and "Lo I am with you always." In the literature of the Old Testament there are many passages which at first sight appear contradictory, but upon looking deeper can be rationally explained and unite in harmony. It is the same with the text, and the way to interpret it is to take it to its author himself, Jesus Christ. We know that he was no ordinary man, but a man set apart by himself because of his powers of speech, because of his unique moral character and for many other reasons. We can do no better than go to him if we wish to learn the meaning of his words.

These two selections used for a text tell us, the preacher said, that we have a leader who is both human and divine. "Me ye have not always." What words could more certainly tell us of his human nature? What words more exquisitely touching those of his farewell to his disciples? There is an attempt by some men to say that Christ was an hallucination, but that is not the way that you and I learn of him from the Bible. He was a real personage, his life real and his sufferings real in his cruel death. As he showed his sufferings in the approach toward his death, isn't that proof enough of his human feelings and his humanity? He knew every pang in every fibre of his humanity and was a partaker with us all.

But his unique words remind us of his divine nature. "Lo I am with you always." Is he a pervasive influence that we cannot escape from? Yes; but that is not all. Is he only an extraordinary power to excite admiration? Yes, he is all of that, but that is not all. Does "Lo I am with you always" mean that as long as this church stands his presence will be there? Yes, but more than that.

The promise of Christ's presence is a promise of omnipresence. If he is present with us in the sacrament, no place in life's work will there be in which he is not with us. This is not a friend who says I will visit you in a dream or a vision of the night, but Lo I am with you always. Can you tell what it is to call upon the heavenly omnipotence, the heavenly love, to be always with you and to save you to the end? Here we have a superhuman power for the asking. All we have to do is to open the door and beckon him in.

In closing, the speaker gave two concrete examples of what the power of Jesus meant in a life, the first being of Livingstone, whose power to go on with his work in the Dark Continent came from a constant communion with him who said Lo I am with you always. Tennyson was the second example given, his religion being a religion that came not from impulse but from reason, bringing sweetness and peace into his life, showing the beatific vision which the poet had received when he wrote Crossing the Bar-Towards such a vision may we approach.

OBSERVATION STATION AT THE ARMY.

Government Officer Here in Charge of the Work—Will Be Located in the Northeast Corner.

A sergeant from the signal corps is in town supervising the work of putting an observation station in the army. It will be a small closet-like arrangement with narrow windows similar to those at the forts for tracking vessels. It will be placed in the northeast corner of the army and will contain telephones and the ear-microphone. In time there will be a dummy gun in the drill shed, but there is not money enough available at the present time for one here.

An effort had been made to have the work of installing the station held up until after the coming fall, but work was received from Adjutant General Cole Wednesday evening that nothing must interfere with the work, as the sergeant is here now, and if the work is not done at present there is no telling when another sergeant will be detailed to come here.

Class in the Second Degree. Somerset lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M., had work in the second degree upon a class of candidates on Wednesday evening at its meeting at Masonic temple. There was a good attendance.

Gained Four Inches in 24 Hours. Fairview reservoir showed 14 inches down from full pond when measured on Wednesday by Supt. J. J. Corkery. This is a gain of four inches in about 24 hours.

MRS. W. TYLER BROWNE RE-ELECTED SECRETARY.

State D. A. R. Meeting Held at Southington—Mrs. Miner for Vice President General.

The regents, delegates and alternates chosen by local chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the state to attend the 21st annual congress in Washington met at Southington Wednesday to transact necessary business preliminary to the pilgrimage to the national capital. Hannah Woodruff chapter entertained and about 150 were present.

The visitors were greeted by Mrs. C. H. Bissell, regent of the entertaining chapter, after Mrs. L. A. Cummings had given the invocation. The naming of committees to make nominations of officers was followed by reports. Mrs. Elizabeth H. Curtis, the treasurer, showed that during the year the receipts were $3,560.22, with $1,000.43 brought over from the previous year. The expenditures were $3,524.13 and the balance carried forward to the new year $1,791.19. The chapters of the state collectively spent $14,338 during the year.

State Regent's Report.

Mrs. J. L. Buell of Litchfield, the state regent, in her report said that the membership gain was 78, making the present membership 4,711. The interest in the organization, she said, had been keen throughout the year. She praised the local chapters for their determination, patriotism and unity of spirit. The development of the work centering in the distribution of the Guide to Immigrants was dwelt on at some length. The final payment of the fund of $5,000 for getting out the Guide has been made to John Foster Carr, the author, and a new agreement made which permits Mr. Carr to finance future editions in Italian and other languages and the payment to the D. A. R. of a percentage on the royalties. The second edition of 10,000 copies in the Italian language has been issued and 1,000 copies of a Yiddish translation and 3,000 copies in Polish are now coming from the press. The Guide finance committee raised $3,730 during the year. Only two chapters have not contributed to this fund.

Mrs. Buell favored continuance of active work for a safe and sane Fourth of July. She also spoke a length of the educational work done by local chapters during the year.

Officers Re-elected.

All of the officers were re-elected as follows: Mrs. J. L. Buell, Litchfield, state regent; Mrs. J. P. Sterling, Bridgeport, vice regent; Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, Norwich, secretary; Mrs. L. K. Curtis, Southington, treasurer.

Mrs. George M. Miner of New London was elected a vice president general from this state to the congress to be held at Washington, D. C.
